historical vis-à-vis each battle. Unlike the legions of the Roman Empire, the legions of the Punic-era republic were usually raised anew each year, and thus there was little continuity. However, we have differentiated the skill levels of these eight legions, both as required by the scenarios and, also, to enable the players to experiment a little. We have, correspondingly, done the same with the alae, although there are no "crack" alae and the differences between the skill levels are not so pronounced. The skill levels are as follows: