Each legion and its corresponding ala has the same, individualized, colored border; this will make identification easier when implementing the Roman stacking rules.