similarly armed and protected. The major difference is the reliance on the sword, rather than the spear, as a killing weapon, and the incorporation of the larger, more effective Roman shield as fair protection against the spear-armed heavy infantry.