Elephants: By this time, the sight of elephants on a battlefield was common—to everybody, that is, except the Romans. Alexander's descendants, the Diadochi, had fallen in love with them, and a trained