6.42 When a Phalanx unit enters two hexes of different terrain or elevation, it expends the higher of the two possible costs both for movement and cohesion. Whenever one half of the unit receives Cohesion Hits, the entire unit suffers the effect. However, if one-half of the Phalanx has already entered a hex that would cause Cohesion Hits, moving the other half into the same type of hex does not cause additional hits.