6.43 The Front-to-Flank Maneuver: A Phalanx unit can either go forward, with both halves of the unit entering new hexes (terrain, other units, etc. permitting), or one half of the unit can enter a hex while the other half pivots in the space it occupies, changing the facing of the unit. For each hex entered while undertaking this Front-to-Flank maneuver, the Phalanx unit incurs 1 Cohesion Hit, in addition to any other terrain-induced costs.
