DESIGN NOTE: On the battlefield, formed Infantry, which here includes anything from PHs down to LIs, moved in a battle formation that would, in later centuries, be called Line. They were capable, however, of using a loose, more mobile formation (in modern terms, Column) for more rapid movement. In addition, because the units were not in an extended line that constantly needed dressing to be effective, the effects of movement upon a unit's cohesion were not as drastic.
