DESIGN NOTE: Most infantry were trained to (attempt to) avoid an elephant charge by allowing the elephants to pass through their ranks. The maneuver did neutralize some of the elephant's power, but at some cost in cohesion to the rank-splitting units.